Mine case, mine cap, compound plug, complete - including plug proper, lower tube, fuze can cap, fuze can, mine transformer, ball seat, circuit-closer case, distance ring, springs, steel ball, 2 brass washers, 2 rubber packings, 1 brass follower, 1 steel follower, 3 lead washers, and set screws; loading wire, C wire, priming charge, 2 fuzes, 100 pounds of explosive, and ruberine. 5. Explain how to prepare a compound plug. The transformer to be used is first tested for a good circuit between the red wires, a poor circuit between the black wires, no circuit between the red and black wires, and no circuit between either wire and case. The upper black resistance terminal is cut to 11/2 inches in length, the end bared, and then clamped in the terminal stud in the neck of the transformer. The ball seat is then screwed home and the ball put in place. The circuit-closer case containing springs, distance ring and steel ball is then screwed home. (In preparing mines for service, before screwing up the threads of the circuit closer, transformer, fuze can, and plug proper are coated with ruberine or some similar waterproofing material. This is omitted when compound plugs are prepared for drill or for instruction purposes.) About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
