Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Department of Defense Authorization for Appropriations for Fiscal Year 2005, Vol. 3: Hearings Before the Committee on Armed Services United States Senate One Hundred Eighth Congress Second Session This subcommittee enjoys a broad charter, the result of oversight responsibilty in areas that are as diverse as they are plentiful. Over the next 5 weeks, the subcommittee will be examining a number of issues relevant to ensuring the readiness of the Armed Forces and the effective management of the Department of Defense and the four Services. In addition to today s discussion on military readiness programs, the subcommittee s agenda for this session includes: on March 23, a hearing on Defense Department financial management policies and practice; on April 1, a hearing on issues related to military installation and the Departments budget request for military construction; and on April 6, a hearing to examine Defense Department acquisition policies. We have a great deal of work ahead in this session, and I am looking forward to getting started. Our focus this afternoon will be to discuss key military readiness programs of the Services. These include programs that support operation and maintenance of ships, aircraft, tanks, and related systems; train personnel; provide for logistics; and maintain base facilities. I m looking forward to candid assessment from each of the witnesses on the current status of these programs and their assessment on how these programs are supporting the overall readiness of the Services today. The President has proposed a$102.6 billion request for the readiness programs of the active and Reserve components for fiscal year 2005. This is a 5.1 percent real increase over current spending plan for fiscal year...
